Big Box Store Fires Strategy and Tactics

Hosted by the White River Township Fire Department

Class location: Emmanuel Church 1640 W. Stones Crossing Road Greenwood, Indiana

Lead Instructor:

Battalion Chief
Billy Hines, FDNY (ret.)

Billy is a retired Battalion Chief for the New York City Fire Department (FDNY).

His FDNY career spanned over 27 years. As a Captain, he chaired a committee that researched and created an SOP for operations in buildings of light weight construction. His assignment as a Chief brought him to Manhattan to supervise operations in one of the most high profile areas of the city. One of several sensitive landmark sites in his district was Penn Station and its associated tunnel system where he formalized and coordinated response and operational procedures.

He was a member of the FDNY's Incident Management Team. Chief Hines is currently a Senior Instructor for the National Transit Institute, an educational subsidiary of the Federal Transit Administration, who provides safety and educational programs for transportation agencies.

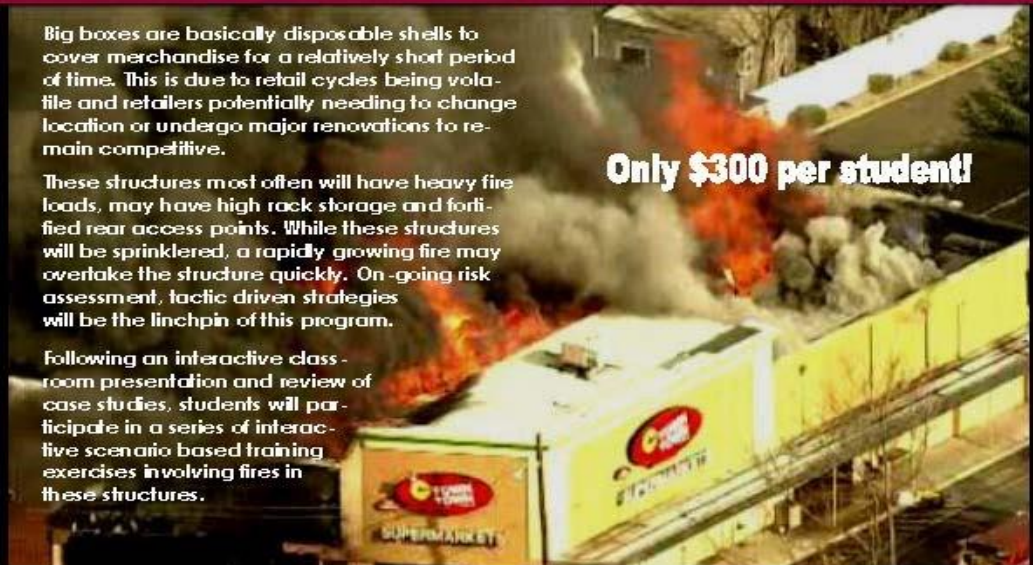

Big boxes are basically disposable shells to cover merchandise for a relatively short period of time. This is due to retail cycles being volatile and retailers potentially needing to change location or undergo major renovations to remain competitive.

These structures most often will have heavy fire loads, may have high rack storage and fortified rear access points. While these structures will be sprinklered, a rapidly growing fire may overtake the structure quickly. On-going risk assessment, tactic driven strategies will be the linchpin of this program.

Following an interactive classroom presentation and review of case studies, students will participate in a series of interactive scenario based training exercises involving fires in these structures.

Only $300 per student!
